VOL 51, NO 40

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 18, 1933

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

WHAT IS IT?

For several days there have been unusual ravages among the lambs in the Hickory Lodge neighborhood, up the Jackson River, just over the Bath County line, and in the center of the wide mountain area which Mr. T. M. Gathright is developing as a big hunting estate.

Just after 2 o'clock Friday afternoon Homer Perry, one of the crack shots of this section of Virginia, noted an attack on a flock by a great winged bird which swooped down out of the sky, seized a large lamb and commenced to devour it. It was upwards of 500 yards from him, but Homer drew a head and with his old army rifle and led by over-keeled the great bird with a big hole drilled by a special soft-nosed bullet right through his heavy body. Then the question developed:

What is it?
It has a wing-spread of 6 feet, 6 inches. Ordinarily, one would say it was an eagle. But what kind of an eagle. Its plumage is certainly unusual in these mountains. The neck and head are covered with a short, soft pure white feathers, almost like eider down. It has the large, sharp curl beak and talons of the eagle all right. The body and breast feathers are brown, but the striking part of the plumage is the back. From the center and top of the back, gradually widening, until in full spread at the tip of the tail are feathers as white and even and glossy as any ever seen here on the finest pure-bred white Leghorn prize fowls at the Alleghany County fair.

When T. M. Gathright rushed the real evidence of the kill into town about 3:30 P. M., with the great bird's body still warm, local sportsmen went into a dither to hold a post-mortem and decide what it is. Dick Oliver said he thought it was a California condor and that he understood Charley Fudge used to shoot lots of them when he was a boy in the Rockies, or the Sierras or the Andes or somewhere.

In the end it was voted to unani-mously ask an opinion of the great authority of the Alleghany Moun-tains, Hon. Calvin Price, the sage of Pocahontas.

The above is from Major Richard R. Bern's Covington Virginian. I thank him for them kind words. The bird is something rare all right, being a bald eagle in full, perfect plumage or I miss my guess greatly. Bald eagles are plenty common; not less than four having been killed and re-ported into this office in the past month. These were plenty big, too, having wing spreads of around six feet. What they lacked was the white back and the white tail. These only come with age. A sea or bald eagle comes into its full plumage at four or five years of age. If the Major will hunt up the emblem of the United States, in colors, I feel sure he will recognize his bird. I had an old out door friend who had killed a number of bald eagles, but had never got an old one. He used to complain to me that the artist had not painted the bird on our National emblem true to nature.

Only last month I saw a big bald eagle that had dark pinions in his tail and dark feathers in his crown. Some years since a friend of mine sent a big "hawk" away to be mounted. It came back labelled "bald eagle," though it did not have a white feather showing. It was not over a year old. The older the eagle is, the more white he will show in his plumage.

Evidently, the bird killed at Hickory Lodge is an ancient eagle—from five years up. What with traps, poison and guns, with every man's hand against him, it is small wonder the sea eagle falls a victim before he comes into maturity.

I have been wondering where all the bald eagles seen and killed in the Beaver Creek community were coming from. I now hazard the opinion that the old bird killed at Judge Gathright's Hickory Lodge has been raising himself some families.

Swago Farm Womens Club will meet with Mrs. J. A. Sydenstricker in Marlinton, on Friday evening, May 19, at eight o'clock.

Mother's Day was appropriately marked by the High School by the planting of a line birch tree on the school grounds with proper ceremony.

HOSPITAL DAY

National Hospital Day was observed by our Hospital Friday May 12th, by open house all day, and while the morning hours did not give promise for many visitors, as it was raining, the afternoon cleared and about 150 guests called.

National Hospital Day is in remembrance of the work which Florence Nightingale, who gave up the luxuries and the fatness of the English Court life, and went to the Crimea, and nursed the soldier boys, lifting them from the filth and squalor of an unsanitary Military Camp, to some degree of cleanliness, and back to health. Her work has stood out to the Nursing World as an incentive to thousands of young women to take up this work, and while they may be unable to be a Florence Nightingale, but many women in the profession, are doing just as great work without the applause of the Nations. This day has been set aside when the hospitals large or small, all over the country are encouraged to demonstrate their worth to the public, on this day the public becomes, not patients—but the guests of the hospital. They do more to inspire confidence, respect and appreciation of our institution than any month of the year. This relationship must be cultivated and nurtured with all those careful concerns that a good hospital typifies. Personal contact with the community when well, and not in need of hospital service, is very important.

We appreciate your devotion and perception of the work which is going on in our small hospital and trust that you will continue to give us your hearty co-operation as in the last year. We appreciate the flowers that helped so much to make our hospital look so festive, also, we wish to thank the young ladies from the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches, who so kindly helped to welcome the guests.

We feel that this last year has been a year of benefit to this county more than any year of the institution, which has been done under difficulties never before experienced; and now, that we are entering another year, we ask you as a county and community, to make your hospital equal to any in the State.

THE STAFF.

THE WOMEN'S CLUB

The Women's Club of Marlinton met in regular session at the Apartment of Mrs. C. P. Dorsey, Friday night, May 12th. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Anna Lee Ervine. The Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. The members present, eighteen in number, responded to roll call with the name of a new book. After a short business session, Miss Annie King gave a report on the book, "The Man Nobody Knows" and a report was given on the book, "Good Earth" by Mrs. Craig Richardson, both of which were enjoyed.

A course of delicious sherbet and cake was served to the club members and four guests: Mrs. Kee, Mrs. A. S. Overholt, Mrs. Douglas McNeill, and Miss Louise McNeill.

The meeting closed in the usual manner, to meet June 9, at the home of Miss Anna Lee Ervine.

Hubert Echols, has one of the most interesting Indian relics I have seen in a long time. It is a small tomahawk fashioned from a kidney shaped quartz gravel, and a hole drilled through it. It was evidently for emblematic use; the sceptre of some great chief or big medicine man. Mr. Echols got it from John W. Sharp of Cloverlick, who found it thirty-five years ago in clearing up an old fence row on the land then owned by Frank Wade on Big Back Creek, near the Bath and Highland county line.

In the big wind storm Monday afternoon, five big sugar trees were blown down around the residence of Mrs. E. J. Shanahan, on Elk Mountain, above Edray. A silo was blown down for M. J. McNeel and the roof of a barn blown off for Norval Clark in the Levels. Down in the Kanawha Valley it was a regular cyclone doing much damage to buildings.

The Pocahontas County Rod and Gun Club expects to put on their annual snake and water dog contest next month. The high water this May has held back the time for starting.

TEACHERS' UNIFORM EXAMINATION

Will Be Held at Marlinton, May 25th-26th.

The First Uniform Examination for teachers will be held at the Graded School Building on May 25 and 26, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. The State Board of Education, at its meeting on May 13th and 14th, ruled that on the first day of July 1933, all applicants for Second and Third Grade elementary certificates by examination, unless they have taught five or more years, should have credits for four units of high school work and eight semester hours of approved professional work.

Because this information does not seem to be known generally throughout the state, the Superintendent of Free Schools has ruled that this requirement will not be in effect prior to July 1. It will, therefore, not apply to applicants taking examination on May 25th-26th and June 29-30th.

The Superintendent has ruled also that he will not exercise the authority granted to him to accept grades from high school and other schools in lieu of grades made on examinations. Applicants, therefore, will be required to take examination in all subjects named by law for certification.

There will be no review Board. In giving assurance that manuscripts will be carefully graded by competent persons, he announces that the grades recorded by these persons will be the final grades in determining the class or kind of certificate.

The best record in the lamb business belongs to Carter B. Hunter, of Sweet Chalybeate Springs. From eighteen ewes he has forty-six living and growing lambs.

Mrs. Martha Moore

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Moore, 97, who died at the home of her son, Andrew, early Friday morning were held at the residence Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The Rev. Wm. E. Butler of the Methodist Church officiated, assisted by the Rev. DeWitt Perry of Elwood, former pastor of the deceased. Mrs. William Saitmarsh, accompanied by Mrs. Butler, sang "The Sweet Bye and Bye."

Following the service in DeWitt, the body was taken to Inland cemetery near Big Rock for burial. About 150 friends and former neighbors of Bennett, Big Rock and Tipton were waiting there to pay respect to the memory of this venerable woman.

Born in Pocahontas county, West Virginia, November 27, 1835, Martha Young had attained almost the century mark in age and was distinguished as the oldest citizen in DeWitt. In her long life she had marked many national epochs and changing conditions in the progress of civilization.

As a child she listened to her Grandfather Young recall his experience as a soldier in the Revolutionary war. Two of her brothers served in the cavalry of the Union forces during the Civil war. In this same war, her husband and three small children were forced to flee from their home in Virginia because they were Union men. Her varied experiences, her delight in reading until failing eyesight curtailed this enjoyment scarcely more than a year ago, and her gentle spirit caused a constant pilgrimage to her door of those who prized her society.

After her marriage to Henry Moore in 1855, the couple continued to make their home in Virginia until 1862 when they were forced to flee north and settled on Inland in Cedar county, Iowa. There they lived until 1860 when they moved to Big Rock. Mr. Moore passed away in 1914 and about four years ago Mrs. Moore with her daughter, Miss Minta came to DeWitt to make their home with her son, Andrew.

Mrs. Moore was the mother of 11 children of whom three, Joseph of Omaha, Miss Minta and Andrew of DeWitt, survive. Eleven grandchildren, ten great-grandchildren and one great great grandchild also survive.

Because of her patriotic associations she was accorded particular attention by the Addie Lee chapter of Daughters of American Revolution. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church for the past 53 years. Since 1915 on the eightieth anniversary of her birthday, relatives and friends have made the date an event. Last November was no exception when 51 came to congratulate her and more than 50 greeting cards came to her through the mail. These occasions never seemed to tire her but were treasured and recalled as happy memories. She was a friendly woman binding the old acquaintances to her in deepest affection and ever welcoming the new—DeWitt, (Iowa) Observer.

Two additional names are to be added to the list of eighth grade graduates of Pocahontas county published this week. They are Elmer Cook, of Cass, and Jeanne Beard of Greenbank.

E. P. Shafer, of Cass, is at the Ronceverte Hospital for treatment.
